

E. P. MITCHELL HONORED AT AMEN CORNER DINNER

and folks like the rest of the world, they have had the custom for many years of celebrating the doings and sayings of our elected and appointed rulers—often enough to the face of the victims.

Ordinarily the program of "stunts" has been long and varied, frequently with costumes and scenery, and all manipulated by the experienced hand of William A. Brady, theatrical producer and Amener of long standing. At the latest dinner, however, there were so many persons of note anxious to express appreciation of Mr. Mitchell that the program of nonsense had to be cut short. The principal act, running through the early stages of the dinner, diverting comment for the courses, was a rapid review of the state of the world, a give and take dialogue between Brother Harold M.D. Anderson and Brother Little.

High and solemn on his water tower President Riggs recognized these Ameners on Anderson's reminder that the corner really possessed a Committee on Foreign and Domestic Relations, which committee was burning to report. Little, appearing for the committee, replied to Anderson's question by saying that the committee had considered the armament conference, though in New York the average voter ranked it to the 5 cent fare question. Then they went at it.

Anderson—Do you think Mr. Hughes really leads the world in his efforts for abiding peace?

Little—Well, at any rate some of my old friends in the Republican organization say they were sorry he didn't think of peace sooner. They say he has changed wonderfully since he was Governor.

Anderson—He certainly made a wonderful opening address.

Little—Yes, the whole world could hear it without amplifiers.

Anderson—In the future doubtless that wonderful machine will make it possible for persons speaking in Europe to be heard across the Atlantic.

Little—Well, if George Harvey ever gets one it should be turned toward him.

Submarines "Hole Cards."

Anderson—On the face of it the nations seemed unanimous at the start.

Little—Yes, they all agreed in "principle," but most of them had a couple of ace buried.

Anderson—What do you mean by "aces buried"?

Little—Why, they were willing to scrap battleships enough to preserve peace if they could have submarines enough to make war.

Anderson—When people "agree in principle" the details can generally be worked out satisfactorily, can they not?

Little—Well, Babe Ruth tells me he thought he agreed "in principle" with Judge Landis, but the Judge is the only one that gets away with any extra money.

Anderson—Does the Amen Corner think Japan likely to start a war on the United States to get hold of our Pacific islands?

Little—Certainly not. If Japan wants any American islands she won't irritate Uncle Sam by trying to take them. She'll be showing a less expensive way.

Anderson—How is that?

Little—Why in separating Uncle Sam from his property the yen is mightier than the sword.

Anderson—Did you ask our honored guest what he thought of the Washington conference?

Little—Yes, I asked Mr. Mitchell about it.

Anderson—What did Mr. Mitchell say?

Little—He said he didn't know; he hadn't attended a prize fight for twenty years.

Anderson—The recent election in New York city was a strange thing.

Little—Yes; it now seems like one great game of put and take.

Anderson—How put and take?

Little—Why Hearst "puts" and Tammany "takes" all.

Anderson—Gov. Miller is said by the substantial men of the State to have made a very high grade Governor.

Little—Yes; his administration is intelligent, dignified, honest and economical.

Anderson—Still he is very unpopular in New York city. How do you account for it?

Little—Why, I told you; his administration is intelligent, dignified, honest and economical. You can't fool the voters in New York city. They know what they don't want.

The guests of the gentlemen of the Amen Corner, 59 in number, notably represented the arts, the professions and the power and influence of business and commerce. Traditional eagerness to attend the unique annual celebration of the inebriations of the Red Plush Sofa was combined with a very widespread desire, extending far outside the circles of journalism, to pay honor to a great American editor.

On the dais with Mr. Mitchell beside the speakers were Sen. James W. Wadsworth, Senator William M. Calder, Charles E. Whitman, George A. Glynn, Paul Dana, who succeeded his father, Charles Anderson Dana, in the control of this sex of more than two decades ago; Edwin P. Gay, editor of the New York Evening Post; Melville H. G. W. PEPPER MAY SUCCEED PENROSE

Governor Expected to Name
U. S. Senator for Short Term To-day.

Special Dispatch to This New York Herald.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 7.—Gov. Sprout left Pittsburgh this afternoon without naming a successor to the late Senator Penrose. He indicated he would announce the appointment from his home in Chester late to-morrow afternoon.

He said the appointee would be from the east, but he would not specify the exact locality. Nevertheless Pittsburgh to-night takes it for granted the Governor has selected George Wharton Pepper.

When a close follower of the Governor was asked if George Wharton Pepper was the man he replied: "You have guessed right before."

It became evident to-day that should the Governor decide to become a candidate for the full term in the Senate at the May primaries he will have the support of interests in the western part of the State upon which the Vaux count to back Representative William S. Vaux for the Penrose seat.

When Gov. Sprout arrived here he went to Mercy Hospital to see Senator Crow. When he returned he said he was surprised to find Senator Crow in much better condition than reports had indicated.
